Zamboanga, the Principal City of the Island, Bombed and Burned and is in Ruins.

There is Also Trouble in Sulu—The Americans Have Blockaded the Port—A British Steamer Denied Admission and Escorted Westward.

New York, May 31.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from London says:

A special dispatch from Labuan announces that severe fighting is reported between Americans and Filipinos on the island of Mindanao.

The principal city on the island, Zamboanga, has been bombed and burned and is in ruins.

The same dispatch reports trouble in Sulu.

The Americans have blockaded the port.

MANILA, May 31.—Twenty petty officers of the United States hospital ship Relief went sailing in the harbor Tuesday. Their boat was followed by a procession of natives near their parakeet lines by the monitor Monadnock. The men are supposed to have been killed or captured.

The cruiser Boston will soon sail for the United States with Capt. Barker, temporarily in command of the Asiatic squadron, and it is expected that he will leave Capt. G. F. Wilcox, now in command of the Boston, in supreme command until the arrival of Mr. Alden Watson.

Capt. Wren has organized a company of a hundred Manchobos as scouts. They wear United States army shirt and trousers and are under Wren's personal command.

IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY.

Graves of Confederate Dead Interred There Decorated With Tissues and With Those of the Union Dead.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—There was a small but impressive service in connection with the ceremonies at the Arlington cemetery which passed unnoticed by many of the thousands there. Following the suggestion made by President McKinley in his address at Gettysburg, the graves of the Confederate soldiers interred in the National cemetery were decorated with unsparing hand as were those of the Union dead.

A remote corner beyond the mound beneath which lie the thousands of Union dead has been the resting place for 30 years of a few who fought for the south. It was more by accident than otherwise that the Confederates were buried there. Some of them were brought into Washington during the various engagements in Virginia near the city, others were taken prisoners and died here, and others from one cause and another came into Washington and died while the struggle was raging.

A HEAD-ON COLLISION.

Nine People Were Injured, Two of Them Seriously, Tuesday Evening 45 Miles South of Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 31.—Nine people were injured, two of them seriously, in a head-on collision of local passenger trains on the Louisville & Nashville road, 25 miles south of here, at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. Both engines and the baggage cars were smashed, while Engineers Burns and Shugart received serious internal injuries. Seven passengers were slightly hurt.

The trains came together on the track half way between West Harpeth and Thompson station, but who is at fault has not been determined.

RICHMOND, Va., May 31.—Reports came in Tuesday night of storms Monday night in Piedmont Va., and the valley. In Albemarle county several houses were blown down and trees uprooted, with the result of rendering the roads impassable. At Blaine City several houses were unroofed and a warehouse was demolished near Woodstock. In Shenandoah county great damage was done to telegraph lines and a farmer was killed by lightning.

Memorial Exercises at Seven Points.

RICHMOND, Va., May 31.—The memorial exercises at the National cemetery at Seven Points Tuesday afternoon were under the direction of Phil Kearney post, G. A. R. Commander J. C. Fowler was in charge of the ceremonies. The Woman's Relief corps led the singing and Capt. R. C. Cook was the orator of the day. Mr. Edgar Allen, jr., of the Sons of Veterans, also made an address.

The Peace Commission Must Take a Back Seat Until the Rebels Are Whipped.

THE ADMINISTRATION REALIZES IT.

It Will Be Necessary to Raise a Part of the Provisional Army Authorized by Congress.

Gen. Otis Has Not a Sufficient Number of Men to Compel the Filipinos to Surrender—Outlook for an Early Peace Is Very Gloomy.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The situation in the Philippine islands as described in recent dispatches is such as to make it almost necessary to raise at least a part of the provisional army authorized by the last congress. If the United States expects to secure complete control of the islands, the administration has been brought to realize that it is no longer war and diplomacy in dealing with the insurgents, but plain war. Diplomacy and the peace commission must take back seats until the enemy has been completely whipped and forced to surrender.

Just how to meet this situation is a question which confronts them and requires prompt decision. Although Gen. Otis states that he will continue an aggressive campaign during the rainy season, it is appreciated that he will be able to do little more than garrison some of the points which the forces under Gen. MacArthur and Lawton have taken and hold them until the rainy season is over. It is also plain that there will be more or less illness during this period of bad weather, and that when the campaign is resumed the force capable of active warfare will be materially reduced.

Including the 7,000 troops now on their way or under orders for service in the Philippines, Gen. Otis will have only 25,000 regular troops under his command. With 30,000 regular troops in Cuba and Porto Rico, there will be only 17,000 regulars left in the United States. The question, therefore, hinges on whether it will be prudent to further draw on the regular forces of the United States for service in the Philippines. Gen. Otis' forces in the Philippines.

Those opposed to organizing a provisional army favor sending more regulars to the Philippines, arguing that an enlisted some of the peaceful Filipinos. But another element in the war department is opposed to half-way measures in dealing with the situation. They are urging the president to sue at once a call for at least 30,000 of the provisional army, so that it may be organized, trained and sent to the Philippines in time to begin an aggressive campaign in the early autumn.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The war department has important news of a character from Gen. Otis which it refuses to make public. It is denied, however, that the message contains anything of an alarming nature, but rather that the information it furnishes is of a character that demands executive attention rather than that of the public. Messages of this deep respect shown to the president and it is the established rule of the department approved by Secretary Alger not to give out for publication that which he thinks should be withheld.

THE TOMB OF LAFAYETTE.

It Was Decorated by the Americans in Paris—Addresses by Ambassador Porter and Ex-President Harrison.

PARIS, May 31.—A large throng gathered Tuesday afternoon in the cemetery of Picpus to assist in the annual decorations by the Americans of the tomb of Lafayette. The interest of the occasion was enhanced by the knowledge that ex-President Benjamin Harrison had been invited to deliver the address. Gen. Porter, the United States ambassador, opened the ceremonies with a brief address, and Mr. Harrison followed with an oration that was frequently applauded. He spoke of the deep respect shown to the president in the United States and the reverence care taken of the graves of American soldiers, remarking that the chief value of such observances was impressing the hearts and minds of the people with the lessons of self-sacrifice and heroism.

Comte De Chambrun followed with a brief address of thanks on behalf of the Lafayette family.

His Third Term.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 31.—Elizabeth Dyke was inaugurated governor of Rhode Island for the third time Tuesday. The day was observed as Newport's annual holiday, and in addition to the usual exercises there was a big celebration in honor of the presence of Mr. Adm. Sampson and the ships of the North Atlantic squadron. In the afternoon the legislature reassembled and Gov. Dyke was formally induced into office.

The Text of the Russian Proposal Regarding Mediation and Arbitration.

SETTLING INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES.

The Mediation of the Friendly Powers Shall Bear Strictly the Character of Friendly Counsel.

An International Commission of Inquiry to Investigate Impartially All Questions of Fact—After Investigation Will Make Report.

THE HAGUE, May 31.—Het Vaderland prints Tuesday the text of the Russian proposals regarding mediation and arbitration.

Part I deals with the desirability of seeking a solution of international disputes by the mediation of friendly powers and sets forth that such offices, whether so-called or professional, shall bear strictly the character of friendly counsel and in no way of compulsory force.

Part II deals with international arbitration, which it declares "the most efficacious and equitable means of settling questions regarding the international application of treaties."

The contracting powers, therefore, should undertake to seek arbitration in such cases as far as they affect neither vital interests nor the national honor of the parties in dispute. Then, after setting forth that each state remains the sole judge of what cases are to be submitted to arbitration, it is suggested that a large number of cases, such as questions of pecuniary damage and disagreements in the application of treaties or conventions affecting commercial, postal, navigation, currency, sanitary and copyright matters and the like, not affecting vital interests or national honor, are those in which arbitration should be obligatory.

In all other cases, says the Russian scheme, arbitration, though recommended by the present act, can only be applied on the spontaneous initiative of one of the parties in dispute and with the express consent of the other parties. The closing clause provides as follows:

"With a view to facilitating recourse to arbitration, the signatory powers agree to formulate a common arrangement for the employment of international arbitration, and for fundamental principles to be observed in drawing up rules of procedure to be followed pending inquiry into the dispute and the pronouncement of the arbitral decision. The application of these principles and procedure may be modified in virtue of special arrangements between the states which may have recourse to arbitration."

Part 3 deals with an international commission of inquiry. It provides as follows:

In cases of divergence causing international litigation a local circumstance, which can not be settled by ordinary diplomatic means, but do not involve honor or vital interests, the governments interested agree to institute an international commission of inquiry to investigate impartially all questions of fact. Each government interested shall appoint two members of the commission. These four shall choose a fifth, who shall be president of the commission. If the voters are divided as to this, an appeal shall be made to another government or to a third party to appoint a president.

"After the investigation, the commission shall submit a report signed by all the members to the governments interested. The report shall in no wise have the character of an arbitration judgment, but shall leave the conflicting parties at full liberty either to conclude a friendly arrangement on the basis of said report or to have recourse to arbitration by concluding an agreement ad hoc, or else by resorting to active measures allowable in the mutual relations between nations."

The Russian proposals are followed by a code of arbitration indicating procedure on these lines: "The states interested that have accepted arbitration shall give a special act of consent clearly setting forth the questions to be arbitrated and the full facts connected therewith. The compromise thus concluded may provide for arbitration upon the whole dispute or upon points categorically determined."

"The governments interested may entrust the functions of arbitration either to a sovereign third party or to a tribunal of arbitration. Such tribunal shall be selected in the same manner as commissions of inquiry; and if difficulty arises in choosing the fifth arbitrator as president, the other powers shall be asked by common consent to appoint a president."

The other clauses of the proposals deal with details as to place of meeting, the appointment of counsel, the procedure of the tribunal and cognate matters.
